Pet Care

Introduction

- The Pet Care Centre Database System is developed to address challenges in managing pet-related information by providing a centralized and structured database solution.
- It is designed to manage data related to pet owners, pets, caretakers, and pet health records in an organized and systematic manner.

Pet Care

Problem Statement

Current Problems Faced by Pet Care Centres

- Manual and paper-based records cause:
  - Data duplication
  - Missing or inconsistent information
- Difficulty in tracking pet health history over time.
- Inefficient caretaker assignment and monitoring.
- Time-consuming registration, updating, and reporting processes.
- Risk of unauthorized access and data errors.

Solution

- Implement a structured database system to organize, secure, and manage all pet care data efficiently.

Pet Care

Objectives

- To create a centralized database for managing pet care information.
- To reduce data redundancy and inconsistencies.

- To improve accuracy in tracking:

1. Pet ownership
2. Caretaker assignments
3. Pet health record

- To support efficient data entry, updating, and retrieval of records.
- To enhance decision making and operational efficiency for staff and management.

Pet Care

Waterfall Method

- The Waterfall methodology was selected for the Pet Care Center database project. This approach is suitable because the system requirements are clearly defined at the beginning of the project and are unlikely to change. Each phase of the project, including ;

database design

normalization

- reduce data redundancy
- ensure data consistency.

implementation

- SQL

testing

- The Waterfall method ensures proper documentation and systematic development, making it appropriate for our database project.
